COMMENTS

Level 3 is a major wholesale network operator in North America and Europe. Level 3's North American terrestrial network comprises 18,900 route miles and reaches over 70 cities. The network became fully operational in April 2001.

In addition to its North American intercity network, Level 3 provides connectivity to 23 major European cities, linked by over 6,000 route kilometers. Level 3 has connected the two terrestrial systems with Yellow, a trans-Atlantic cable stretching from New York to the U.K. Level 3 also owns capacity on the Atlantic Crossing-1 and Apollo submarine cables.

In December 2005, Level 3 acquired WilTel Communications Group for $724 million, which expanded Level 3's service area to 50 new markets in the U.S. In early 2006, Level 3 also acquired Progress Telecom, a wholesale carrier in the southeastern U.S, for $137 million.
