Population data as of 2002. Workforce data as of 2001. Access figures represent Internet bandwidth provisioned on DSL, cable, dedicated circuit, and dial-up access, and were calculated using FCC data for May 2001 regarding Internet users by technology by state. These data were multiplied by bandwidth per technology (such as 0.056 Mbps for dial-up), and then divided by each metropolitan area's share of state residential or business users. Share of state residential users is based on each metropolitan area's share of the total state population. Share of state business users is based on each metropolitan area's share of state employees on non-farm payrolls.
